CAMDEN DAILY POST, Saturday, October 9, 1880.

The Daily Post.

SATURDAY, OCT. 6, 1880.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS

Business notices, Marriage and Death notices, and Advertisements of every kind, must be left at the Counting Room of this Office by 11 A. M., in order to ensure insertion the same day. Marriage notices must be accompanied by a responsible name, and are charged twenty-five cents. Death notices, twenty-five cents each insertion.

THE CAMDEN DAILY POST can always be had at this office in the Ridgway House building, immediately opposite the post office. It is always served regularly. If not sold by newsboys in Gloucester city, Woodbury and Haddonfield, Pennsylvania six cents a week. Subscribers residing in any part of either of said municipalities, and paying direct to the publisher, will be charged at the rate of twenty-five cents a month in advance.

The Commercial Bureau of Advertising, 10 Market street, this city, is authorized to contract for advertising in this paper, at the lowest rates.

THE DEMOCRATS AND THE TARIFF.

John H. Dialogue, a Camden ship builder, is one of the Democratic candidates for Elector-at-Large from this State, and in a recent interview said: "I can assure you there is not the slightest cause on the part of the Democratic leaders with whom I come in close contact every day, not only in this State, but in Pennsylvania and New York—to change the tariff. That's a fair issue. If Hancock is elected, (and I believe he will be) no fears need be entertained regarding any disturbance of the tariff laws." It is evident from his talk that somebody is to be elected, either the New Jersey and Pennsylvania Democrats or the free trade South, and as the latter has the majority, who will control? Why does the party at large declare for a tariff for revenue if no change is to be made in the existing protective policy?

The Democratic record is the best reply to the above. In 1870 Fernando Wood, the New York free trader, introduced a bill which in many respects was wholly shaped in the interests of foreign manufacturers and importers, and in every respect it was hostile to the protection of home industries. General Garfield moved to kill it, and 70 Southern and 59 Northern Democrats voted against him, and thus followed the leadership of the solid South. Out of 16 Democratic members from New York, 12 voted with the South for the overthrow of the present tariff; out of 8 from Ohio, 8 voted the same way; out of 8 from Illinois, 6 voted with the South; and ten of four from Indiana, 3 voted to save the bill. In short, 90 Democratic members out of 96 in these four Northern States obeyed the wishes of the Solid South against the known desires and interests of their own constituents, except such of them as were elected by the influence of foreign importers.—Newark Advertiser.

PEREMPTORY SALE
AT WENONAH.

M. THOMAS & SONS,
AUCTIONEERS.

FIRST GREAT SALE OF SIX COTTAGES
—AND—
75 CHOICE BUILDING LOTS
At WENONAH, N. J. 11 miles south of Philadelphia, on Main Line of West Jersey Railroad.
Wednesday, October 13, 1880, at 2 o'clock precisely.

The sale will consist of Six Comparatively New Cottages, well located and containing six to ten rooms, and Seventy-five Building Lots, 75 x 150 feet within lines, Every Lot Offered will be Sold. Liberal Advances to Those who Build.

WENONAH is beautifully situated on the main line of the West Jersey Railroad, 11 miles south of Philadelphia, in the midst of a rolling country, and possessed of many natural advantages.

For pure air, excellence of water, and general healthfulness, Wenonah has no Superior, within easy reach of Philadelphia.

The village consists of a large and attractive Hotel, commodious Church and School House, and about forty beautiful cottages, occupied principally by Philadelphia and Camden business men, who prefer the health and comfort of the country to the closely built-up city.

The numerous trains over the deservedly-popular West Jersey Railroad, and the short space of time consumed in traveling to and from Philadelphia, Cape May and Atlantic City, gives this place decided advantages over many of the suburbs of our great city, and offers to persons—even of limited means—an opportunity to reside away from the often pernicious influences of the city, and at the same time continue their business with much less expense than a residence in the city would cost.

A visit to the place and inquiry of any one of the residents, or any of the well-known gentlemen who with their families spend their summers at the Wenonah House, will convince any one desiring a country home that Wenonah is a healthy, pleasant, and convenient place of residence.

Arrangements have been made for constructing a dam across one branch of Mantua Creek, at the southern boundary of the village. It is expected that the work will be completed early in 1881, which will provide a Large and Attractive Lake for Pleasure Purposes.

A SPECIAL TRAIN will leave Market Street Wharf, Philadelphia at 11 o'clock on the day of sale and returning will arrive in Philadelphia about 5 o'clock.

FREE LUNCH will be served at the Wenonah House.
