

SCHOLARSHIP FOR GIRLS

Bucknell Establishes One at Local High School

Old acquaintanceships were renewed and friendships brought to life at the annual meeting of the Bucknell Alumnae Society of Philadelphia and vicinity, held yesterday at the College Club, Fifteenth and Spruce streets. More than a hundred old schoolmates and graduates were assembled. The business meeting took place at noon, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. I. H. O'Harra, vice president; Mrs. Cathrine Engleberth, secretary; Miss Letitia Mathews, assistant secretary, and Mrs. Dewey Cobb, treasurer.

It was announced that a free scholarship had been established at Bucknell University for a girl from the Girls' Philadelphia High School. The course will be one of four years, and board and tuition are free. The scholarship will be awarded in a special competitive examination to be held yearly among the members of the graduating class of the Girls' High School.

At the afternoon meeting Miss Ethel Royal, in speaking on the social life of women today, declared that the frivolities called social duties prevented women from performing their real duty to mankind and the world. Mrs. Robert Slifer lamented that the culinary and other domestic sciences being taught in the public schools were not to be found on the curriculum of some colleges.
